Special Holiday for Financial Institutions

The Cabinet's Resolution on 15 December 2009 has declared 16 April 2010 and 13 August 2010 as special public holidays.

The Bank of Thailand (BOT) has agreed to set 13 August 2010 as a special holiday for financial institutions in order to support the government's policy. In addition, setting 13 August 2010 as additional holiday does not conflict with the common practice that financial institutions holiday should not be longer than four consecutive days.

However, the date of 16 April 2010 is confirmed as normal business day since the six consecutive holidays may have unfavorable effect on business sector and economy as a whole.
